Claims 1-4 are pending in this application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Zheng et al., Planta Medica (1998), Vol. 64, No. 8, pages 754-756.

Applicant claims compounds I and II.

Determination of the scope and content of the prior art (MPEP §2141.01)

Zheng et al., teach similar compound. See the compound on the attached abstract.

Ascertainment of the difference between the prior art and the claims (MPEP §2141.02)

The difference between the instant invention and that of Zheng et al., is that at position 10, the instant compounds are isomers while the compound of Zheng et al. is a racemate.

Finding of prima facie obviousness--rational and motivation (MPEP §2142.2413)

However, a novel and useful compound, which is an isomer of a compound or racemate thereof, is prima facie obvious. In re Norris, 84 USPQ 458 (1950).

Therefore, the instant invention is prima facie obvious from the teaching of Zheng et al. One of ordinary skill in the art would have known to claim the isomers the compounds of Zheng et al, at the time the instant invention was made. The motivation is from knowing that isomers have similar activity.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 3-4 are allowable over prior arts of record.

Priority Document

Applicant claims priority to a foreign document. However, the English Language translation of the document is no yet received.
